“In Your Neighborhood Episode 1: It’s Gonna Blow” features local filmmaker Bill Perrine’s amazing look into the exploding San Diego music scene of the early 90’s. We talk to Bill about his film “It’s Gonna Blow!!! The San Diego Music Underground: 1986-1996” and the music that inspired him. Lou Niles was featured in “It’s Gonna Blow” because of his heavy involvement in the local music scene, where he worked with radio, artist management and supported bands to be signed to major labels.

“Episode 2: Built In Sun” focuses on Built In Sun, which is a new project from Joe Plummer (Cold War Kids/The Shins/Modest Mouse/Black Heart Procession) and Pall Jenkins (Black Heart Procession/Three Mile Pilot/Mr. Tube and the Flying Objects). Lou meets up with Joe and Pall in South Park where they discuss how the band came to be, the new album, the songwriting process, and what we can look forward to in the future.

Upcoming episodes will feature Jewel, P.O.D., Cody Lovaas, as well as local artists, photographers, causes and events created here in San Diego.
